

A Collaborative Approach to GIS

On January 23, 2009 Bryan Townsend, Tim DeTroye, and Jim Kiley addressed the South Carolina City and County Management Association regarding GIS Collaboration efforts between York County and the City of Rock Hill.

County and municipal operations are 90% land related, whether locating homes for 911 calls or planning and economic development project. By working together, the City of Rock Hill and York County have established a dynamic and accurate base of information on which to serve their citizens and customers.

The presentation looked at some of these collaborative GIS efforts and share the specific benefits accomplished.
